That is the question that Tyesha Sims has running through her mind. Her past was a series of bad choices that resulted in ruining other peoples' lives as well as her own. When Tyesha decides to change, her past comes back to haunt her.

Gunner Morales has been secretly in love with Tyesha for years now. But she was with one of his best friends, so he kept his feelings in. Now that Tyesha is single, he is trying to give her time to get her life together before he pursues her. But his time may have run out. He has competition for her heart that he never expected.

Men were not a part of the plan while trying to get her life together. They had used and abused her in the past, and trusting them and her choices has her running scared. But she is finding out that some men come to heal the soul and help love you past the pain. Who will she choose?
